The American Cancer Society's Annual Women Leading the Way to Wellness Luncheon shines the spotlight on the prevention and early detection of cancer and the critical role that women's health and self-care plays in this area. Helping women to prioritize their health is a focus of the ACS as we forge the way to not only find a cure for cancer but find ways to prevent it. Decreasing cancer occurrences is as important to us as finding a medical cure, though we continue to aggressively work on both fronts to eradicate cancer.

As a sponsor of our event, you're a part of something so much bigger than just this event. Your support helps us to get closer than ever to finishing the fight against cancer.

The American Cancer Society is passionately committed to fighting every cancer and helping every community. We are the largest community-based voluntary health organization in the world, with 3 million dedicated volunteers supporting cancer patients and their families every day.

Together with our millions of supporters, the American Cancer Society saves lives and creates a world with less cancer by helping people get well and stay well, by finding cures, and by fighting back against cancer with research and education. We are there when and where people fighting cancer need help. We are proud of the progress we've made - but know that together, we can do even more.

Thank You

Cancer mortality rates in the US have fallen by over 20 percent during the past two decades - that's 500 lives saved from cancer every day. We are working to save 1,000 lives a day domestically, and one day 10,000 lives a day worldwide.

Today 2 out of 3 people diagnosed with cancer survive.
Our goal is to make that 3 out of 3.

We are putting all our efforts towards saving more lives, faster.
Today, we're focusing on key areas where we know we can make progress quickly. We're honing in on the biggest cancer killers, where we have proven strategies to help reduce the burden, like tobacco control and colon cancer screening.
